

POSTING: Project Biologist & Team Lead

We are looking for a well-rounded and experienced applied biologist to join our team.

Sartori Environmental Inc. is a boutique environmental consulting agency based in North Vancouver, operating primarily within the south coast region of British Columbia. We service a large range of clients and industries, providing a professional and pragmatic approach to environmental impact assessment and management planning for modern land and resource development.

Applicant Qualifications:

- Minimum five years of environmental consulting experience.
- A Registered Professional Biologist (R.P. Bio.) in good standing with the College of Applied Biology (Note: A professional designation is a requirement; other professional designations will be considered).
- Strong aquatic and/or terrestrial biology background.
- A problem solver interested undertaking a diversity of tasks with the ability to work independently and within a team.
- Understanding of, and experience with small and large scale construction processes.
- Familiarity and understanding of pertinent provincial and federal legislation (e.g. Water Sustainability Act, Fish Protection Act, Riparian Areas Protection Act, Environmental Management Act, Canada's Fisheries Act, etc.), and their respective regulations.
- Experience working with clients, contractors, stakeholders and agency representatives.
- Business development experience.
- Project management experience.

Expected Start Date: July 1, 2019 (or sooner)

Applications will be accepted until June 15, 2019 – We look forward to hearing you.
